Woodcock Washburn Partner Named Fellow of Litigation Counsel of America

Philadelphia – National intellectual property boutique Woodcock Washburn LLP is pleased to announce that John P. Donohue, litigation partner in the firm’s Philadelphia office, has been selected as a Fellow of the Litigation Counsel of America. The Litigation Counsel of America (LCA) is a trial lawyer honorary society composed of less than one-half of one percent of American lawyers. Fellowship in the LCA is highly selective and by invitation only. Fellows are selected based upon excellence and accomplishment in litigation, both at the trial and appellate levels, and superior ethical reputation. The LCA is aggressively diverse in its composition. Established as a trial and appellate lawyer honorary society reflecting the American bar in the twenty-first century, the LCA represents the best in law among its membership.

John Donohue has been practicing law for over 30 years. John concentrates his practice on intellectual property litigation and counseling in the areas of patents, copyrights, and trademarks. John specializes in serving high-technology clients in the computers and computer software, telecommunications, electronics, robotics, medical imaging, and automated control systems industries. John has earned many significant victories on behalf of his clients. Before joining Woodcock Washburn, John served as in-house counsel for a global manufacturer of adhesive, coating, and spray systems. John has been described by his peers as “a top-class all-around IP lawyer” and a “practical and straightforward attorney with excellent leadership skills” in the legal referral guide Chambers USA. John holds an LL.M. in Trial Advocacy from Temple University School of Law. He received his J.D. from New England School of Law and his B.E.E from the University of Dayton.
